Our line of march was as follows: First, Boul-ton's scouts, accompanied by a gatling gun; grenadiers formed the advance guard with a battery; the Ninetieth battalion supported them with the Winnipeg battery and the Midland battalion in reserve. Gun, steamer, scouts and gat-ling then pushed rapidly ahead, and soon came upon two houses near the bank of the river, which here is very precipitous. The advanced party of rebels were met, who fired and retired behind the house towards the hollow. The gatling was brought to bear on them, when they ran into the house near the Church of Laurent, which was also fired on by the gatling, when they ran out into the bush. A battery by this time came up with a rush and got into position, sending several shells after the rebels. The grenadiers now advanced, marching steadily into action and deployed into line, continuing to advance in skirmishing order till the church was reached, when a priest came

WAVING A WHITE FLAG. General Middleton and staff advanced and shook bands, when three other priests and five Sisters of Charity came out. A number of half-breed children were also inside in charge of the Sisters. Father Monlin informed me that the steamer arrived at a point a little above Batouche at 5:30 a. m. The rebels immediately commenced firing on it from both banks. It shortly afterward struck on a mud bank, but swung clear again, and just before our arrival passed the crossing. He also said the rebels had six killed and twelve wounded at Fish Creek. We just got a glimpse of the steamer down the river. She must have had a hard fire, as her smoke stack was gone. The Granadiers advanced, skirmishing through the bush on the right of the trail, the gatling being pushed forward down a declivity towards Batouche, now plainly visible in the valley below. Here the battery unlimbered on the top of the battery unlimbered on the top of the ridge, sending shells into them, and whilst doing so were almost surprised by a number of the rebels, who crept up through the bush, not being discovered until twenty yards distant. They made a rush for the guns, firing and yelling as they ran. Those remaining turned and ran from it, reaching the shelter of the bush. They opened fire again, and Howard's escape from injury was something mar-velious, the bullets flying all around him. He gallantly maintained his posi-tion, and the rebels unable to stand the terrible fire, returned to the pits constructed in the ravine running from the river. Our line was now as follows: Forty-first and Fifteenth companies of the Midland with the Winnipeg battery, supported by E and C Companies of the Ninetieth in the center, and extending across to the right where the Grenadiers were, supported on the left by B Company of the Ninetieth; on the right center by D Company of the Ninetieth, and on the extreme right by F and A Companies

Captain Young just climbed on the roof of the church and descried a body of Indians on the level near the river bank, about a mile away. The Winnipeg battery was ordered, and sent several well directed shells, scattering them immediately. Firing has now entirely ceased, but may be resumed at any moment. No news has been received from the steamer, but she keeps blowing her whistle, hence it is concluded she is safe. The sound apparently comes from two or three miles down the river. Cutting Things Under Water.

When science was in its infancy, much of its fact was mixed with nonsense, and me of the nonsense shows a wonderful vitality. A case in point is the recent republication of a nonsense bit that was current at least forty years ago. It is a recipe for cutting glass with shears or seissors. The statement is that sheet glass can be cut with the greatest ease with a pair of scissors if the glass is kept under water and kept in a level position That there is not a word of truth in it any one may easily prove on a trial, with the result of dulling a pair of shears.

There is one cutting process that can be better done under water than out of water; that is, the paring of onions. When pared under water the acrid emanations, so unpleasant to the mucous membrane of eyes and nose, are dissolved or held in the water. But neither the quality of glass nor the power of scissors is changed by immersion in water.—Scientific American.

A rather remarkable coincidence is that Captain Schoonhaven, who commanded the "Daniel Steinmann," was also in command of the "Helvetia," and this was the first age across the Atlantic which he has made since the wreck of the "Steinmann." The "Helvetia" arrived in the Gulf of St. Lawrence over a week ago, and has been knocked about in the ice for seven or eight days. Her bows were stove in and she was otherwise damaged by ice. She was leaking badly on Friday. Captain Schoonbaven left Cape Ray and bore up for Sydney, having all he could do to keep the ship afloat. On Saturday a heavy sea sprang up and he hailed the ocean line steamer "Arcadian," which was pass-ing. London, May 10.-The News says it is believed that the Irish Liberals who supported the Government on the 6th inst., in defeating the Conservative amend-ment to English registation of the voters' bill, which provided that the cost of registration should be charged to the treasury instead of local rates, have de-cided to vote against the Government to-morrow on Sir Mossey Lopes' motion to and if the motion is carried the result may be very grave. Mr. Parnell has issued a strong whip to his followers to be present at the division on this motion. It is estimated that he will be able to throw five more votes against the Government than on the 6th inst., when the result was 240 to 237. The grievance of the Parnellites is that the Government refuses to give its assurance in respect to the provision of a sufficient sum for the expenses of registration of voters on England Won't Annex the Samoa Islands.

LONDON, May 10 .- Earl Derby, Colonial Secretary, replying to a request from the Government of New Zealand to the English Government to annex the Samoa Islands on the ground that the native chiefs wished a union with England, sent a dispatch on January 5th, announcing that the German Government had given ample assurances that it would respect the independence of Samoa. "If, there-fore," he concluded, "New Zealand should unfortunately send a Colonial Secretary to Samoa, Germany would be jus-tified in annexing the Islands." The Premier of New Zealand then suggested, as an alternative, a treaty between England, Germany and America to respect no treaty of the Islands,

Outrage on a Young Girl. Oswego, N. Y., May 10 .- Early Saturday night two masked men entered the ouse of F. S. Thrall, in this city, during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Thrall at church. A daughter, aged 14 years, had just put a younger sister to bed and sat down at the piano, playing, when the two men appeared in the room. One of them, with a drawn knife, seized her, and under penalty of death commanded silence, but said she would not be harmed if she made no outcry. He then cut off her hair and cut her clothing, saying he wanted to be revenged on her father. They took some articles of silverware and left the house without doing the child any further harm.
